A. Grants and scholarships: Financial assistance that does not need to be repaid. Williams, Pell, SEOG, State grants, and many others are need-based. The book grant amount is an estimate based on the average cost of books. At Williams, students receiving financial aid do not pay anything for required books and course materials.

B. Outside Scholarships: Includes any known private scholarships, tuition benefits, or other direct financial assistance. You must notify us in writing of any outside awards – see more on reverse.

C. Loans: Borrowed money that does need to be repaid, usually with interest. Subsidized loans are need-based and interest-free while in school, unsubsidized are not need-based and accrue interest while in school.

D. Federal Work Study/Campus Employment: Financial Assistance in the form of potential earnings from working in a campus-sponsored job. Students are expected to work 6-8 hours per week. These funds are typically used for personal and travel expenses. In some cases, a small portion of earnings must be paid directly to Williams.

E. Cost of Attendance: The total budgeted expenses, both direct and indirect, that help determine your financial aid need.

F. Tuition, Meal Plan, Housing, & Fees: Direct expenses that are paid to your Williams bill (managed through the Office of Student Accounts) from a combination of the family contribution and financial aid.

G. Personal & Travel: Indirect expenses that we assume a Williams student must pay out-of-pocket during the academic year, including travel to and from home, laundry, personal items, and entertainment. Students must budget their own money to pay for these expenses – they are typically paid from a combination of your student contribution and campus job earnings.
